

Contents

Features

- 16 EXCLUSIVE UPDATE WITH PETER JACKSON
Jackson reveals the ultimate responsibility of a director and how he keeps himself motivated during rough times.
- 24 LIVING IN THE SHADOW
As the youngest of seven kids, actor David Wenham has a good grasp on family dynamics. In our cover story, the Australian speaks about playing Faramir and the character's complex relationships with Denethor and Boromir.
- 32 THE MANY [GHOULISH] FACES OF BEN PRICE
Ben Price was working behind-the-scenes of the film production until the day Weta chief Richard Taylor took notice of his tall height. Since then, Price has played several acting parts on the project—though not necessarily all good characters!
- 40 ARTIFACTS—FORGING A FELLOWSHIP
Drawing from his experience as a fantasy roleplayer, Peter Lyon became a well-accomplished swordsmith, which eventually lead him to the "surreal" job of creating numerous swords and weapons for The Lord of the Rings films.
- 48 RIGHT PLACE, RIGHT TIME
Artist John Howe recently took some time out of his hectic schedule to speak about his experience creating art for the trilogy.
- 56 UNSUNG HEROES
Master potter Mirek Smisek credits his deep belief in the power of creativity as the strength behind his work as an artist. Designing more than 600 pottery pieces for the films, Smisek definitely doesn't have a fear of getting his hands dirty.

Departments

- 8 MAILBAGGINS
- 10 NEWS FROM MIDDLE-EARTH
New documentary explores the remarkable fan base of The Lord of the Rings...A few of the trilogy's crew members receive prestigious Orders of Merit... Jackson invests in the New Zealand film industry...Celebrity Tracks...and more!
- 60 DOWN THE ADVENTURE PATH
United Cutlery's stunning weapon replicas for The Lord of the Rings trilogy not only include swords but helms, axes, staves, shields, as well as a soon-to-be-released replica of the crown of King Elessar—just like the one Gandalf places on Aragorn's head.
- 68 FAN FOCUS
The Official Fan Club Message Boards recently sponsored their third visual arts contest. Learn about the winners, the contest details, and the renowned artists who served as the panel of judges. Also, hear about the exciting fan activities going on in North Carolina.
- 70 CATALOG
- 82 QUOTEWORTHY